The SUBSTITUTE

A story for the boy

Because he loves to look forward to the time when he too will be in college.

A story for the alumnus

Because it retraces with wonderful vividness those dear old days that are but memories now.

A story for the foot ball enthusiast

Because it discusses the points and tactics of the game; the talks of the coaches to the team; the details of individual positions; the daily work on the field.

Who can tell of college life, and of college foot ball, as well as the greatest authority on the game?

To an altogether unusual book which we want you to examine with critical care the moment it comes into your hands. Do not merely glance at it, heft it, give a little nod of satisfaction and pile it on the gift-book table. It will, on the contrary, pay you to sit down a bit with it, examine it page by page, picture by picture. For then you will know for yourself that has the novelty, the beauty and the other qualities for a BIG CHRISTMAS SALE. We insist upon this personal examination because the book is so different from any other gift book of recent years that you can't size it up in a minute or two. Examination, and only examination will disclose to you the unusual beauties that will enable you to bring about its possible big sale—that will suggest just the right thing to say to your different kinds of customers. For this is the

GIFT BOOK FOR ALL SORTS

It will appeal to the uncultivated as well as to the highly educated. Lots of folks will be

Caught by ITS SENTIMENTOthers by ITS PATRIOTISMOthers by ITS ARTISTIC QUALITYOthers by ITS BEAUTY AND SHOWINESSOthers by ITS EXPENSIVE APPEARANCE

And so on indefinitely. More than any other gift-book we ever saw, this one has the many-sidedness to appeal to ALL MANNERS AND KINDS AND QUALITIES of buyers.

Dumouriez vs. Napoleon

The Defense Planned to Repel the Emperor's Projected Invasion of England

By J. HOLLAND ROSE and A. M. BROADLEY

Portraits, Maps and Fac-Similes. 8vo. $5.00 net

Charles François Dumouriez was born thirty years before Napoleon, and won fame as a soldier and a diplomatic agent. He was summoned (probably at Nelson's suggestion) from his place of exile near Hamburg, and between 1803-1805 (principally under the auspices of Mr. Pitt) drew up a complete plan for the defense of England against Napoleon. The authors have had access to Dumouriez's holograph copy of the whole project, recovered by chance some years ago in London.

Memoirs of the Dukes of Urbino

By JAMES DENNISTOUN

Cloth, 8vo. 3 volumes. $12.00 net. Illustrating the arms, art and literature of Italy from 1440 to 1630. New edition with notes by Edward Hutton, over 100 illustrations.

The chief authority upon the Duchy of Urbino from the beginning of the fifteenth century, although for many years out of print. Mr. Edward Hutton has carefully edited the present work, adding a large number of new notes, comments, and references. Besides these notes the book acquires a new value on account of the mass of illustrations which it now contains.

A Spanish Holiday

The following are some of the topics treated in a masterly fashion: The Revolutionary Spirit, France Among the Nations, Church and State, Socialism, Marriage, Trade and Colonies, The French Woman, Trade Unionism, The Republic, Morality.

Birds of the Plains

With illustrations from Photographs of Living Birds.

8vo. $4.00 net.

This book consists of vivid pen-pictures of Indian Birds by one who knows his subject. It is a thorough protest against the dogmatism of the modern Darwinism. Zoologists will have either to dispose of Mr. Dewar's objections and arguments or to modify their existing ideas.

Kashmir: Land of Streams and Solitudes

With 25 Plates Reproducing Water-Color Paintings in Original Facsimile and 100 illustrations in Black and White. 4to. $5.00 net.

Kashmir is described by pen, pencil and brush. In the color illustrations the artists have caught the atmosphere as well as the natural features of the country she so ably portrays.

An Illustrated Book of Travel and Description of Rare Charm

SUN AND SHADOW IN SPAIN

By MAUD HOWE

Author of "Roma Beata," "Two in Italy," etc.

After many months of wandering in Spain, filling her note-book with comment and storing up a treasure-house of impressions and memories of things Spanish, the talented daughter of Julia Ward Howe has presented the results of her observations in a book which, for charm and value, will take its place beside her two previous volumes on Italy.

 A special word must be said of the illustrations, for, through the association of the author's husband, Mr. John Elliott, the well-known artist, with Jose di Villegas, the Court Painter to the King and the Director of the Prado, she has been able to obtain unusually beautiful and valuable photographs which have never before been published. The book contains four full-page illustrations in color.

Christ Legends

By the author of "The Wonderful Adventures of Nils." Translated from the Swedish by Velma Swanston Howard. With decorations by Bertha Stuart. Boxed, $1.25 net

HAMILTON W. MARIE says in the Outlook: "Selma Lagerlöf is regarded by many students of Swedish literature as the foremost living Swedish writer. There seems to be a feeling that, when the time is ripe, she will be awarded a Nobel prize."

One of our advisers says of these Christ Legends: "These stories are full of charm and beauty; they are, even in English, clear, vivid, picturesque, and very human. A really well written book for young people"

Mrs. C. W. Rankin's The Adopting of Rosa Marie

A Sequel to "Dandelion Cottage." Illustrated by Mrs. Shinn. $1.50.

"A charming response to numerous requests for a sequel to 'Dandelion Cottage.' Delightfully natural and likable girls. Good, wholesome, absorbing stories that Mrs. Rankin deserves credit for writing and which fun-loving adults will enjoy no less than the young folks."—Chicago Record Herald.

"Those who have read 'Dandelion Cottage' will need no urging to follow further the adventures of the young cottagers. . . . A lovable group of four real children, happily not perfect, but full of girlish plans and pranks. . . . A delightful sense of humor pervades the book, and the amusing happenings from day to day make entertaining reading."—Boston Transcript.

Mary W. Plummer's Roy and Ray in Canada

By the Director of the Pratt Institute Library School, and author of "Roy and Ray in Mexico." With map, Canadian national songs with music, and illustrated from photographs. $1.75 net. Special library binding 10 cents net additional.

The increasing popularity of the author's book of Mexican travel for children assures a warm welcome to the story of Roy and Ray's trip to modern Canada.

"Canadian history, manners and customs are not very well known to the average American child, so that this volume, with its fine illustrations and comprehensive descriptions is of much value."—Springfield Republican.

"I never realized until the appearance of this book that there was really nothing, up to this time, to give children in the states a genuine view of life across the borders. . . . This makes exceptionally important the coming of a book like this so attractive in the write-up and especially in the photographic illustrations."—Journal of Education.

NOTES IN SEASON.

BRENTANO'S have just ready a novel entitled "The Supreme Test," by Mrs. Baillie-Reynolds, author of "Thalassa," etc.

LEMCKE & BUECHNER announce "Stieler's Atlas of Modern Geography," adapted for the English-speaking public by B. V. Darbishire. The work contains 100 maps with 162 inset maps.

D. APPLETON & Co., have published a novel by Myra Kelly, entitled "Rosnah." The author has been known heretofore as a writer of short stories. "Rosnah," her first novel, is a story of an Irish girl living in Ireland, and is characterized by the same mixture of pathos and humor which has usually marked Miss Kelly's short stories.

L. C. PAGE & Co., have just ready in the Travel Lover's Library, a two-volume work on "Old Edinburgh," by Frederick W. Watkeys, M.D. The work is very fully illustrated from photographs and rare prints collected by the author. An English edition of "Anne of Green Gables," by L. M. Montgomery is to appear at once through Sir Isaac Pitman's Sons, London. It is now in its sixth edition in this country.

THE OUTING PUBLISHING COMPANY will bring out at once a story of university life, entitled "The Stroke Oar," by Ralph D. Paine, whose college course at Yale is proof conclusive that athletics and literary culture are not incompatible. He made the varsity crew in 1891, his Freshman year—in itself an unusual achievement—and also rowed on the crews of 1892 and 1893. Moreover, he has the distinction of being the only crewman who has ever been chairman of the Yale Literary Magazine, and in his Senior year, won a conspicuous literary prize, by an essay on the novels of Thomas Hardy.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. have just ready The Christy Book for 1908, which harks back to the model of three years ago and carries the title of "The Christie Book of Drawings in Black and White and Colors." It reproduces most of Mr. Christy's most popular cartoons and other drawings of recent years which have not appeared elsewhere in book form, presenting them in larger size and exquisite printing. They have nearly ready W. L. Taylor's "Our Home and Country." It will contain beautiful reproductions, in heliotype and half-tone, of thirty of Mr. Taylor's best known and most popular paintings. Each picture will be accompanied by the text of the painting which inspired it.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just ready "The Mascot of Sweet Briar Gulch," by Henry Wallace Phillips. It is the first book in several years by the author of "Red Saunders," a story which he has had long in contemplation and preparation, but the completion of which has been hitherto delayed by ill health. The book has been especially designed to make an attractive gift, in appearance as well as contents, and to this end the nine full-page pictures in color by F. Graham Cootes, materially contribute. They will bring out shortly a new story by May Raymond Shipman Andrews, the author of "The Perfect Tribute," entitled "The Better Treasure," into which the author has breathed the very essence of the Christmas spirit—indeed, all the immemorial legendary charm of Christmas Eve is about the book, which has been illustrated by H. M. Bunker.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ☞

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Albe, E. E. Fournier d'. New light on immortality; with il. and diagrs. in text. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1908. 19+334 p. D. cl., $1.75 net.

The author is Hon. Secretary of the Dublin Section of the Society for Psychical Research. The present work has arisen out of the cosmological speculations embodied in "Two new worlds," which themselves were suggested by certain recent advances in our knowledge of the atoms of matter and electricity. The book is an attempt at what we might call a physical theory of immortality.

Recounts the crimes and vices of several rulers, including the Czar of Russia, the Sultan of Turkey and a number of men and women prominent in public life in Europe and the United States, the author believing it is wise to discuss these rulers critically.

Baldwin, May. Holly House and Ridges Row: a tale of London, old and new; il. by M. V. Wheelhouse. Phil., Lippincott, [1908.] 339 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of two English families, each blessed with children: one family is rich, the other poor. They become friendly and among other enjoyments they have together is visiting places and scenes with which interesting historical or literary reminiscences are connected. For young people.

Barbour, Ralph H: My lady of the fog; with 12 il. by Clarence F. Underwood and decorations by E: Stratton Holloway. Phil., Lippincott, 1908. c. 219 p. O. cl., †$2, boxed.

The author of "Holly" and other novels tells another pretty love story, which has its scene on the rock-bound coast of New England. A beautiful and wealthy New York girl, seeking a rest from social duties and the attentions of a foreign count, is spending a few weeks at her maid's home. Out-fishing one day, she drops her oar and is lost in the fog off the coast from Gloucester. She is rescued by a young man, who is an employee in one of her own mines in the West. The girl refuses to make known her identity, the pair finally drifting into love with each other. The ending is a surprise.

The hero is one of a party of British trappers who have suffered at the hands of the French raiders and their allies, the Indians. By Washington he is appointed captain of a band of scouts, with whom he goes through many thrilling experiences in the defence of Fort William Henry. After several hair-breadth escapes he is made prisoner and taken to Quebec, from which place he escaped by means of the steep cliffs and by the aid of his former companions, the scouts. He was just in time to join the British forces in the attack upon Louisbourg, and afterwards took an important part in the capture of Quebec.

Bronson, Edgar Beecher. Reminiscences of a ranchman. N. Y., McClure Co., 1908. c. 314 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of a little boy who was always laughing. Although his parents were too poor to buy him playthings, he was very happy. He lived on the edge of a dense wood. One snowy day, when wishing for a sled, a big wolf came out of the woods. The wolf told him he was a good wolf, and that he could give him anything he wanted. He not only gets his sled, but the wolf turns himself into a woolly dog and takes him to meet the animals living in the forest. He meets fairies too, and has a most delightful time.

Carr, Kent. Rivals and chums: a public school story; with 8 il. by Harold C. Earnshaw. Phil., Lippincott, 1908. 307 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A story of English public school life for boys. It tells of the friendly rivalry of two boys and of how one of them won his spurs and the captaincy of his school. By the author of "Brought to heel."

Chesterton, Gilbert Keith. Orthodoxy. N. Y., John Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1909, [1908.] c. 9+13-299 p. D. cl., $1.50 net.

Many critics complained of Mr. Chesterton's previous book called Heretics, on the ground that it criticised current philosophies without offering any alternative philosophy. This book is an attempt to answer the challenge. It is unavoidably autobiographical. The writer has been driven back upon somewhat the same difficulty as that which beset Newman in writing his Apologia; he has been forced to the egotistical only in order to be sincere. While everything else may be different, the motive in both cases is the same. It is the purpose of the writer to attempt an explanation, not of whether the Christian Faith can be believed, but how he personally has come to believe it.

Church, S: Harden. A short history of Pittsburgh, 1758-1908. N. Y., De Vinne Press, 1908. c. 135 p. il. pors. O. cl., $1.25 net.

Some ten years ago Mr. Church contributed to a book on Historic Towns, a brief historical sketch of Pittsburgh. The approach of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Pittsburgh, led to many requests that he should reprint the sketch in its own covers as a souvenir of the occasion. He has thought best to rewrite the original work, adding new material, and making it a complete, though short history of Pittsburgh. The story has developed itself into three natural divisions—historical, industrial and intellectual.

Cornwallis-West, Jennie Jerome, [Mrs. G: Cornwallis-West, formerly Lady Randolph Spencer Churchill.] The reminiscences of Lady Randolph Churchill. N. Y., Century Co., 1908. c. '07. 12+470 p. pls. pors. O. cl., $3.50 net.

Jennie Jerome, a New York girl, daughter of Leonard Jerome, married when quite young Lord Randolph Churchill, whom she met in Paris, where she was living with her mother. Her reminiscences chiefly cover the last quarter of the past century, when she was Lady Churchill. In 1900, a few years after Lord Churchill's death, she became Mrs. Cornwallis-West. Her life up to the present has been most remarkable; her experiences in English and European social, diplomatic and political life being unique. She met many of the most distinguished people of her generation, had the most delightful adventures and witnessed or took part in many stirring historical events. She tells the most amusing anecdotes of herself and others, and includes letters of famous people in her narrative. She is exceptionally witty and exhibits a charming humor. The volume is filled with portraits of royalties and famous people.

Crichton, F. E. Peep-in-the-world. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1908. 5+258 p. pls. D. cl., $1.25.

A small English girl of nine years comes to Germany on a visit to her uncle in the old home of her mother. She is a wistful looking little thing, always wanting to know about everything, so her uncle promptly gives her the name of Peep-in-the-World, by which she is always known. Her father and mother have been obliged to go to India, so for the year they are away, she has a delightful time in the old castle. She makes acquaintances with young and old, has some odd happenings, hears stories of knights and fairies, and altogether is very happy.

- Farrell, Frank J. Dyeing and cleaning: a practical handbook; with 78 illustrations. Phil., Lippincott, 1908. 8+232 p. D. (Griffin's technological handbooks.) cl. (Add. pubs. for price.)
 Author, sometime assistant lecturer in dyeing, Royal Technical Institute, Salford, England. While he has endeavored to justify the sub-title—"a practical handbook"—he has paid more attention to the general principles which govern the methods employed than to minute working details. "The latter," he says, "are superfluous to the practical man, and of little value to the beginner." In the chapter devoted to dyeing he has found it impracticable to mention more than a title of the coloring matters which are now available, therefore only one or two series of dyestuffs have been given as prototypes. Brief bibliography (½ p.).

Hallock, Ella B., and Gilbert, C: B. Some living things: primary lessons in physiology. N. Y., A. S. Barnes & Co., 1908. c. 13+214 p. il. D. cl., 36 c.

Ella B. Hallock was formerly State Institute instructor in physiology and hygiene in New York and Massachusetts. This is the plan followed in "Some living things." The child is not forced to memorize statements of scientific facts, admirably correct, but to him meaningless. He is shown the paw of a dog, the claw of a bird, and from them he learns that his own foot, too, is made up of joints worked by cords and muscles. He is taught, also, that as it is a delicately arranged mechanism it must be properly cared for; that tight and ill-fitting shoes prevent it from properly doing its work. Thus it is not merely knowledge of facts but their application to his life which this book seeks to impress upon the child.

Hichens, Rob. Smythe. Egypt and its monuments; il. by Jules Guerin and with photographs. N. Y., Century Co., 1908. c. 10+272 p. Q. cl., $6 net, boxed.

Nowhere in literature is there to be read a more sympathetic description of the wonders to be seen upon the Nile journey than in this volume by the author of "The garden of Allah." Mr. Hichens has avoided the guide-book style of writing and has confined himself to setting forth the color, picturesque, wonder and mystery which characterizes the monuments of Egypt. The twenty pictures by Jules Guerin, in full color, convey the immensity and the color impressions of these wonders of the past. The color pictures are supplemented by about forty full-page reproductions of photographs.

After thirty years in India the author gives his interpretation of the problems that confront her to-day—and the difficulties the post has handed down. As the home of many faiths, a land swept by invasion after invasion, bound by an exorable cost system, the spirit of its belief at variance with all progress—still the author finds the modern stirring of unrest, the germ of growth. A work based on thirty years' residence, observation and experience in India, revealing remarkable insight into the problems and tendencies of the present day in that country. The volume is attractively illustrated from photographs collected by the author.

A quick tempered but kind-hearted barber is the means of having a man arrested and sent to prison for stealing two loaves of bread. When he discovers that the theft was made to feed his starving family of little folk, who had just lost their mother, he is in despair. The story that follows is as amusing as it is pathetic. The barber adopts the family of little ones, and sets in motion the machinery of the law, to set the father free. The characters are chiefly Italians of "Little Italy" of a big city, their English and exciting ways being extremely laughable.

The author, who was vice-president of the Brethrenhood of the Good Shepherd in Australia, in his mission of spreading the influence of the Church of England in a parish with boundaries two hundred miles apart, lives a life unlike the ordinary "parson." Constantly in the saddle, spending nights in the open, holding services, for want of a church, in public houses, he comes in close touch with men and events in the still rough life of the Bush.

Author is a consulting engineer and professor of hydraulic and sanitary engineering, University of Wisconsin. In the preparation of this book he has endeavored to consider, briefly, at least all fundamental principles and to point out the basis on which successful water power development depends. The method of study and investigation outlined herein was developed by the author during twenty-five years of professional practice and in his efforts to illustrate the principles underlying the subject in his lectures to the senior class in water power engineering at the University of Wisconsin. Each chapter is followed by a bibliography of the subject. Index.

The author of "The martyrdom of an empress" and "The trident and the net" gives us a story of modern Brittany, showing the relations of royalists and republicans and of church and state. The captivating heroine returns after a long absence, as the wife of a British diplomat, to the castle of her forefathers [Raskavel] from which the story takes its translated name. Young and dauntless in spirit, though old in years, she inspires a royalist revolt, wins the devotion of her followers, and the love of a young Breton noble. The tragic ending of the story is in keeping with its setting.

The litigation over this book has established the fact that it is the life authorized and planned by Whistler himself, and that it is based on material furnished by himself and by his family. Mrs. Parnell wrote the admirable "Life of Charles Godfrey Leland," proving her to be a very able biographer; her own and her husband's intimate friendship with Whistler gave them that opportunity of personal knowledge which no biographer who has only documents to work from could possibly possess. Many of the pictures were photographed before they left Mr. Whistler's studio.

The author in his preface speaks of the difficulties one is confronted with at the outset in attempting to write a life of William the Conqueror. "The mere details of the king's history, if full discussion were given to all matters which have been the subjects of controversy, would far exceed the possible limits of a volume of this series. . . . On the other hand, a life of William the Conqueror which ignored the changes in constitutional organization and social life which followed the events of 1066 would obviously be a very imperfect thing." Therefore the last three chapters of the book have been reserved for some examination of these questions; many footnotes supplement the text. Index.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

NOVEMBER 7, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

AFTER THE ELECTION.

THE Election is over and there are a million more voters who are pleased with the result than those who are disappointed—at least, that is the majority of the winning over the leading losing candidate. The disappointed believed, naturally, that the country would in the long run become more prosperous had their candidate been elected. The victorious, on the other hand, believe that a menace to the prosperity of the country has been removed, and that now business will "boom." It is probably a mistake to suppose that the country would have gone to the "bow-wows" if the defeated candidate had been elected and a large number of American citizens had had their way. In fact, the influence of Presidential elections on business, both before and after election, is doubtless exaggerated by partisans on both sides. But it is true that business is sentimentally affected, and to some extent otherwise affected by an election, especially at financial centres. Despite the crisis of last year, which was partly the result of over-extension and partly the result of fear, the country has been essentially prosperous because the farmers have been prosperous to an extent unparalleled heretofore. But the crisis sadly deranged business at the financial centres and throughout the industries, such as the railroad and manufacturing interests, which depend upon "easy money" and the supply of capital for their support and extension. These industries will be favorably affected by the result of the election, and to this extent prosperity will be heightened.

The book trade felt the crisis of last year perhaps least of any business during the Fall and Winter of 1907; but it did feel it to some extent during the Spring and Summer of this year. Fall business, on the whole, has been good, and with some houses excellent; but it is true that a good many orders were sent in subject to cancellation or with delayed shipping orders practically to await the result of election. These orders will now be released and trade will be all the better.

As already pointed out by us, it has again been shown that the book trade furnishes commodities which are on the border line between necessities and luxuries, which richer people buy in the holiday season when they cannot afford expensive presents, and which poorer people are glad to buy in larger quantities when times are good.

The stock markets of London and New York promptly had their "boom" after the election, from which there will doubtless be some reaction; but the volume of business is likely to be large the rest of the year, and the Christmas trade in books will in all probability be better than last year. Retailers may therefore order more confidently, and they should be prepared to make the best of the season, so that the last two months may round up the year as one of more than average return.

OUR Christmas issue, the "Christmas Bookshelf," is well advanced in preparation and we are making efforts to issue it earlier than usual. It is one of the best means of making the most of Christmas trade, and we trust that the prospects of prosperity will induce larger orders than usual, as well as orders from those who have hitherto not tried this medium. It is an impartial and comprehensive statement of the offerings of the several publishing houses, and advantageously takes the place of the confusing multitude of advertisements and circulars issued severally and separately by the different publishers. It is kept and read where these are thrown promptly into the waste-paper basket, and is at hand through the Christmas season from which to make up lists of last-minute presents. A dealer cannot do better than have the "Christmas Bookshelf" in the homes of each of his customers, while it is one of the best expedients to obtain new trade.

WITH the opening of Congress, the first week in December, the copyright question will come to the front again, with fair probability of the passage of a new copyright bill during the session. President Roosevelt, himself an author, is peculiarly interested in having the new copyright measure one of the results of his administration, and this will doubtless be effective in hastening legislation, despite diversities of opinion and difficulties of reconciliation. The American Publishers' Copyright League held its annual meeting this week and will be prepared through its effective executive, Mr. George Haven Putnam, and its other representatives, to take its full share of the work. There were six bills pending as Congress adjourned, but it was understood that these would all be considered by a sub-committee of the Joint Committee on Patents which would sit during the recess with the intention of introducing a final compromise measure at the opening of the coming session. Nothing has so far been heard from the sub-committee, and it is probable that it has postponed work until after election day. It is certainly to be hoped that a measure will be devised which will satisfy authors and publishers and avoid the opposition of the classes antagonistic to certain features of the legislation proposed.

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' COPYRIGHT LEAGUE'S ANNUAL MEETING.

THE annual meeting of The American Publishers' Copyright League was held on Thursday, November 5, at the office of D. Appleton & Co., the President, William W. Appleton, being in the chair.

The members of the Executive Committee were re-elected for the ensuing year as follows: Charles Scribner, J. Henry Harper, A. F. Houghton, Craige Lippincott, Dana Estes, Frank H. Scott, and L. Dion.

At a meeting later of the Executive Committee the present officers of the League were re-elected for the ensuing year as follows: William W. Appleton, president; George Haven Putnam, secretary; F. H. Dodd, treasurer. The arrangement with Stephen H. Olin, as counsel, was confirmed for a further year.

The secretary, Mr. Putnam, presented to the members of the League a summary of the provisions of the copyright bills that are now on the calendar of the House and of the Senate. He added a summary of the provisions of the bill which had been recommended on behalf of the National Bar Association by the Copyright Committee of such Association, the chairman of which Committee is Arthur Steuart, of Baltimore. He explained that the recommendations of Mr.

Steuart's committee had been adopted in substance in the House Bill bearing the name of Mr. Washburn.

Mr. Putnam reported further that the sub-committee which had been appointed by the Patent Committee of the House and the Patent Committee of the Senate (sitting in joint session on this copyright business), which sub-committee had been charged with the task of shaping from the existing bills a final bill for the action of Congress, had not yet reported the text of such bill. It seemed probable that the matter of copyright would not be reached during the short session of Congress, but in the possibility that a final bill might be brought up for the action of the two Houses, it had seemed important to secure an expression of opinion from the members of the Copyright League as to the provisions of the pending bills which seemed to meet most effectively the requirements of the authors and of the publishers. There was a very general expression of appreciation on the part of the members present in regard to the conscientiousness and thoroughness with which the complex and difficult matter of copyright had been handled by the two Congressional Committees, and special acknowledgment was made for the services of Mr. Currier, Chairman of the House Committee, and of Senator Smoot, Chairman of the Senate Committee. The League found ground, however, for a very decided expression of disappointment that Mr. Currier should have thought it desirable, after the conclusion of the Congressional hearings and the filing of his original bill, to bring into print an amended bill for the purpose of modifying one of the provisions concerning which there had during the preceeding two years been a large measure of controversy. The provision in question had to do with the importation of copyrighted books.

The authors and publishers, as Mr. Putnam pointed out, "had from the beginning of these discussions maintained that copyright meant the exclusive control, for the author and for his assign, of the work copyrighted. Such exclusive control is given under all the existing copyright statutes of the world excepting that of the United States. Even in the United States statutes, the provision making definition of copyright accepts the same understanding of its nature and undertakes to leave for the producer of the copyrighted article the exclusive control of the same, and to leave with him also the privilege of transferring to his assign (in the case of a book, the publisher) the same exclusive control. It is evident that unless the producer is placed in a position, in making sale of his product, to assign the full control of the market in which the product is to be sold, the market value must be proportionately reduced and the amount to be secured by the producer (author, artist or composer), proportionately lessened. The provision of the existing statute having to do with the matter of importation had, as was recalled, been inserted during the last days, and almost the last hours of the session of March, 1891, and during the five years in which the matter had been under discussion no proposition had been made for importation excepting with the permission of the owner of the copyright. The law as it existed up to 1891, was quite explicit on this point. Under this interpolated provision, the privilege was conceded not only to libraries and associations, incorporated or unincorporated, but to individuals throughout the United States, of bringing into the country, irrespective of the permission of the owner of the copyright, copies of copyrighted works. This privilege of unrestricted importation had during the seventeen years since the enactment of the law of 1891 brought no little confusion into the conditions of copyright, and had interfered materially with the value of property securing copyright in the United States.

"The librarians, who had during this term of years enjoyed the convenience of such unrestricted importation, were naturally indisposed to relinquish the privilege. The authors and publishers had after a discussion extending over the past two years, accepted as a matter of compromise and under protest, on the ground that it was not in accord with the principles of consistent copyright law, a provision under which the permission for the importation of copyrighted books, irrespective of the permission of the owner, should be left to libraries and associations incorporated and unincorporated. The privilege of such unrestricted importation for individuals, that is to say for the entire community, had been cancelled in the importation provision of all of the pending copyright bills. This provision for unrestricted importation on the part of individuals had, however, been restored by Mr. Currier in his amended bill, which bill had been reprinted for the purpose.

"The publishers can only submit on behalf of their clients, the authors, and of themselves as the assigns of the copyrights of the authors, a renewed protest against such an invasion and undermining of the principles and the practice of copyright."

The provisions of the Washburn copyright bill, which follow in substance the recommendation of the bill recommended by the Committee of the International Bar Association, were approved as meeting most nearly the requirements of the authors and of the publishers.

The secretary was instructed to do what might prove to be practicable to secure the enactment during the coming Congress of this Washburn bill.

The meeting then adjourned.

LOWELL'S OLD BOOKSELLERS.

RECENT issues of the Lowell (Mass.) Citizen contained reminiscences from its readers as to the old booksellers of that city. From these accounts we make the following extracts:

In the 40's there used to be a book store in Central Street, near where Cook & Taylor's store now is, called the Franklin Book Store. It had a large portrait of Benjamin Franklin over the door. It was kept by a very ministerial-looking person, by name Oliver March. He also had quite a circulating library. When he died, Mrs. Eaton, mother of Admiral J. Giles Eaton, bought it, and after a while moved to a store under the Unitarian Church, still keeping the circulating library. She sold out to Mr. Edwards, and he to Mr. Coggeshall. He moved across the street and later sold out to Thomas B. Lawler, who is the legitimate successor of Oliver March.

Before 1852 there was a bookstore in the Wentworth Building, corner of Shattuck Street, kept by Colonel Watson of the Sixth Regiment. Afterwards it was kept by Frederick Parker, who ran an insurance business also. He kept it until his death.

In 1851 James P. Walker came to Lowell from Little & Brown's, of Boston, and opened a book store in the Wentworth Building, next door to Colonel Watson's; but the next year he moved to the corner of John Street, where the Five-cent Savings Bank Building now stands. There had been a bookstore there before, kept by W. D. Waldron. Mr. Walker stayed three years, then closed up the business, going to New York. While in Lowell, he published a little volume, "Wonders of Nature," a book for children; and also published the second edition of Dana's "Muck Manual," revised and enlarged, by Dr. S. L. Dana, chemist for the Merrimack Print Works. He also published a set of "Rewards of Merit," which had quite a large sale among the primary school teachers of those days.

Jonathan Allen kept a book and stationery store in Merrimack Street, between John and Kirk Streets, in the 40's in connection with a bindery. Giving up the store, he opened a bindery in City Hall Avenue, where the King's Cafe now stands. After his death it went into the hands of B. C. Sargent, who kept his store the second in the city government building, taking the store when the city moved the library upstairs.

P. A. O'Neill had a printing office in Lee Street at the corner of the alley. He did copper-plate printing also.

At the corner of Shattuck and Merrimack streets, where Thompson's hardware store now is, was Watson and Sargent's bookstore; and in this store and in the store of B. C. Sargent could be seen the most prominent men of the town at that time.

At the corner of Merrimack and John Streets was Walker's bookstore, and one of the good doctors who walks the streets of Lowell today was "the boy" in Walker's store from 1850 to 1854.

It should not be forgotten to mention William J. Coughlin, who was a bookseller in the 70's in Wyman's Exchange. It was in his service that Thomas B. Lawler learned the experience which enabled him to become the successor of Coggeshall, who was the successor of Oliver March. Mr. Coughlin was a writer of verse also, and published a book of poems in 1878, entitled, "Songs of an Idle Hour." Lawler's is the only legitimate bookstore in the city today, because he deals exclusively in books and stationery.

CHARLES L. BOWMAN AND THE UNION LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.

CHARLES L. BOWMAN & Co. and The Union Library Association, of which Charles Lee Bowman is president and manager, have just moved into their handsome new quarters in the Brunswick Building, at 225 Fifth Avenue,, New York City.

The Union Library Association does a large mail-order business in this country and abroad and enjoys the distinction of being the only exclusively mail-order book and stationery establishment in New York City. The present business is the successor to the Home Library Association, organized in December, 1884, in Chicago. In 1884, Mr. Bowman became connected with Hill & Harvey, of Baltimore, and represented their subscription department in the South until December, 1885, when he took charge of the mail-order department of the Home Library Association, of which Hill & Harvey were Eastern superintendents.

In 1888 Hill & Harvey were succeeded by J. A. Hill & Company, who continued the business in New York City. Mr. Bowman came to New York in the same year still in charge of the mail-order department of the Association, which became his property in 1897.

In July, 1907, the Union Library Association, which already had absorbed the Home Library Association, was incorporated at Albany, and in the same year Charles L. Bowman & Co. succeeded to the book and stationery business which had been carried on in the name of J. A. Hill & Co. up to this time.

Mr. Bowman, who next year will round out his twenty-fifth year as a bookseller, has still before him a bookselling career that is worth while. He has rather high ideals as to the kind of books that should be offered for sale, and also rather high ideals as to how mail-order customers should be treated. Above all, he is a tireless worker, which accounts for the fact that in ten years he has built up an interesting business of which any one might be proud. His many friends in the trade wish him more success and prosperity.

THE BOOKTRADE IN THE BUSINESS MEN'S PARADE.

THE publishers, printers and stationers turned out on Saturday, October 31, for the business men's parade, and were especially prominent. The Scribner men turned out nearly one hundred strong, and delegations were sent from the houses of Dodd, Mead & Co., Ginn & Co., Houghton Mifflin Co., and others. By reason of their large number, the Scribner men were given the right of line of their own division. They were headed by their own marshal, John H. Dingman, and their men were captained by Messrs. Whitworth, Byrnes and Merkel. They wore a very neat white satin badge, tied with a red-white-and-blue bow, upon which was printed: "The Scribner Men—Taft and Sherman Parade—1908." The division was headed by a banner upon which was inscribed in large letters "Publishers, Printers and Stationers, etc.," so that they were identified through all the route of the procession.

The eleventh division, of which these were a part, was under the immediate charge of Marshal J. S. Huling, accompanied by Committeeman Harry F. Hull, of Dodd, Mead & Co. The enthusiasm was very great and the men marched with military precision. It was a fine sight, as one looked up and down the line of parade, to see a solid mass of red, white and blue flags waving in the strong breeze of that day.

The parade is said to have been the largest ever given in New York for such a purpose.

As they were upon the route, the marchers saluted the various publishing houses which they passed, including the American Book Company, Macmillan Co., Ginn & Co., Houghton Mifflin Co., Charles Scribner's Sons, Brentano's, Dodd, Mead & Co., D. Appleton & Co., and others.

THE PRESIDENT TO BECOME AN EDITOR.

The Outlook in its issue for November 7 contains an announcement of the connection as special contributing editor with the magazine of President Roosevelt, who is to become associated with the publication March 5 next, together with an outline of the nature of Mr. Roosevelt's future work as a magazine editor. In making the announcement The Outlook says:

"As the beginning of the nineteenth century was characterized by the movement toward political democracy, so the beginning of the twentieth century has been characterized by a movement toward industrial democracy. In this world movement Theodore Roosevelt has been recognized as a world leader. No one who knows him has believed that his leadership would cease with his retirement from the Presidency. . . .

"Mr. Roosevelt will be more than a mere contributor. His headquarters will be at The Outlook office, and he will be in frequent, and, we hope, constant consultation with its staff. His position will thus be somewhat analogous to that of a consulting engineer who is called in to give the benefit of his expert co-operation to the staff of engineers in charge of a great undertaking like the Panama Canal. But the editorial control of The Outlook will remain unchanged. Mr. Roosevelt's contributions, though editorial in their nature, will be signed by his name. . . .

"As already announced, Mr. Roosevelt, after retiring from the Presidency, will sail for Africa, and the reports of his scientific hunting expedition will be published exclusively in Scribner's Magazine. During this period his contributions on questions of the day will necessarily be somewhat restricted. Yet The Outlook will have the benefit of his foresight before he sails, and will give to its readers occasional articles from his pen on topics of current interest, which will foreshadow his larger editorial activity upon his return to his native land."

CUSTOMS RULINGS.

PRINTING PAPER CANNOT BE CLASSED AS TYPEWRITER PAPER.

THE GERMANIA IMPORTING Co., of New York City, protested against the classification of a cheap thin paper in sheets 22 x 34 inches as typewriter paper. General Appraiser Fischer in reviewing the case, said: "We find from the testimony that the paper in controversy is not suitable for use as ordinary typewriter paper. There is some evidence that it may perhaps be so used in manifold and duplicate work for copy purposes. A limited use of the paper for that purpose would not in our opinion warrant the conclusion that it is a typewriter paper. Notwithstanding a resemblance in certain particulars, the paper on account of its poor quality, the size of the sheets, the lack of body to the material, has such characteristics as would distinguish it quite materially from the article known in commerce as typewriter paper. The testimony shows that the paper is suitable for use as printing paper for books or newspapers, and we sustain the claim in the protest."

BOOKLETS CONTAINING LITHOGRAPHS—
SOUVENIR ALBUMS.

Small souvenir albums containing lithographic prints, which were classified under paragraph 400, tariff act of 1897, relating to booklets printed in whole or in part by the lithographic process, were claimed by R. F. Downing & Co., of New York City, to be dutiable as lithographic prints, or as manufactures of paper. Appraiser Fischer said that, "We find upon inspection of the sample that the souvenir albums contain a series of views lithographically printed and so arranged that they may be drawn out in a long strip and then folded back in the cover. The views are so printed that when detached they may be used separately as pictorial post cards. The souvenir albums are in the nature of little books or booklets, and differ as to their dutiable character in no respect from those passed on in G. A. 5239 (T. D. 24085), following which we overrule the protests."

COMMUNICATIONS.

CARELESS "TIPPING IN" OF ILLUSTRATIONS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: May I make use of your columns to voice the universal complaint of public libraries relating to the method adopted by most publishers for inserting illustrations? At present all illustrations, whether in a work of fiction or in books of a less ephemeral character, are "tipped in" with a little paste to the adjoining signature. The result is that they become loose and are either lost or stolen long before the book shows signs of wear.

This is a cause of great annoyance to public libraries. A still greater annoyance, however, is the method, which seems to be on the increase, of "tipping in" an illustration to a blank page by the two upper corners. Even the most conscientious patron of a public library refrains with difficulty from removing such an illustration and preserving it for his own use.

From the library's standpoint it is self-evident that all illustrations should be guarded, the guard folded around the adjoining signature and sewed through. No illustrations should be "tipped in" to a blank page. The adoption of such a method would cause publishers very little extra expense and would add much to the value of the book for library use. We believe that it would also be a great benefit to the general public.

Doubtless the publishers have good reasons for present methods, but if they could examine the numerous volumes in public libraries which have lost part or all of the illustrations that they ought to have we believe that they would come nobly to our rescue, and make it easier for the ordinary user of public libraries to respect public property.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

W. J. LOCKE, author of "The Beloved Vagabond," etc., who is planning to spend part of the winter with Rutger B. Jewett in America, is now at work upon a new novel which he hopes to finish during the winter. "Simple Septimus," his most recent work, is drawing to a close in serial form in The American Magazine, and will be issued early in January by the John Lane Company, New York.

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD was not killed after all. According to a letter just received by G. P. Putnam's Sons—for whose magazine he has written a number of stories and articles dealing with the Lake region, which will be published in book form next year under the title of "The Romance of the Great Lakes"—he has been through some rather exciting adventure, "is pretty well banged up and glad to get out of the wilderness," but quite as much alive as ever.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE October number of The Library contains a second article by W. W. Greg on "Some False Dates in Shakespearian Quartos," with a plate giving reduced copies of all the watermarks in the quartos concerned. In this second article, Mr. Greg examines the case of other plays of which two or more editions bear the same date, and shows that in some instances there are strong grounds for suspicion. Robert Steele prints, it is believed for the first time, the complete text of the Casket Sonnets; H. Thomas describes the Cervantes collection at the British Museum, as enriched by Henry Spencer Ashbee's bequest; and Victor Scholderer gives an English rendering of one of the most dramatic of German mediæval legends, that of the wicked Archbishop Udo.

ULRICO HOEPLI, of Milan, has just brought out another of his useful reference works—namely, a catalogue of Italian books in the departments of literature, science and art. The catalogue—a "dumpy twelvemo" of 491 pages—contains the titles of nearly 16,000 volumes by Italian authors or in the Italian language kept in stock at Hoepli's bookstore. The contents of this excellent bibliographic handbook are grouped under twenty-six subject headings and are rendered easily accessible by an index to authors which takes up ninety-five pages of matter set in small type in double columns. The number of the catalogue, 300, is significant of the industry of its compiler. Ulrich Hoepli, (Italianized into Ulrico Hoepli,) was born on February 18, 1847, in Tuttwyl, in the Swiss Canton Thurgau. After completing his studies in Zurich he became a bookseller, filling positions in Mayence, Trieste, and Breslau. After travelling through Europe for a time he settled in Milan in 1871, where he purchased the book business established by Tendler & Schäfer in 1840, in the Galleria de Cristoforo. In a short time he established branches of his business in Naples and in Pisa. In recognition of his services to the Italian booktrade, which has been immensely stimulated by his energy and example, King Victor Emanuel conferred upon Hoepli the rank of a Commendatore, and received from King Humbert I. a precious bronze group. In 1889 he brought out the first catalogue of his publications, the "Catalogo generale delle edizioni Hoepli, 1872-1889, a twelvemo of 255 pages, containing the titles of 943 books published in less than twenty years. Hoepli's specialty in publishing has always been the practical, the majority of his publications being technical. From that time until the present he has brought out four catalogues of his publications, the last one, issued in 1907, listing 2569 titles, representing 3173 volumes. Besides the catalogues of his own publications Hoepli has published 300 catalogues of books that he handles in his bookstore and 139 catalogues of old books handled by his antiquarian book department, representing 266,432 titles—truly a creditable record. Mr. Hoepli's latest catalogue may be obtained of G. E. Stechert & Co.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE Association of Leipzig Booksellers' Assistants, (Buchlandlungs-Gehilfen-Verein zu Leipzig,) on October 3 celebrated its seventy-fifth anniversary.

CUPPLES & LEON announce that H. Rider Haggard's long-delayed new novel, "The Yellow God" will be brought out November 25th. It is a story modelled along the lines of "She."

B. HERDER, of St. Louis, Mo., has published "Arnoul, the Englishman," by the Rev. Dr. Francis Aveling; also, "Nizra, the Flower of the Parsa," by Andrew Klarmann. He has in press "The Conventionalists," by Robert Hugh Benson.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have just brought out a new book for children, by Florence K. Upton, author of the Golliwogg Series, a fairy story entitled "The Adventures of Borebee and the Wisp," containing thirty-two colored illustrations by the author.

CASSELL & COMPANY have published this week "Letters from an Ocean Tramp," edited by William McFee, which, as the title suggests, is a journal of the sea, giving in narrative form the various experiences of a seaman whose voyages are as erratic, as devoid of the precision and definiteness of regular itineraries as the wanderings of a tramp on shore.

STANLEY PAUL & Co., of Clifford's Inn, London, Eng., write that owing to unforeseen circumstances E. B. Rendon will be unable to represent his firm in New York City, and Mr. Paul will himself pay a flying visit to this country, and expects to arrive in New York on the 26th inst. As this will be a very hurried visit, and Mr. Paul will be unable to call on many firms, probably, he hopes that important communications will be sent to him in advance, care of Frederick Warne & Co., 36 E. 22d Street, New York City.

THE CHRISTMAS WREATH has just been marketed by the Cupples & Leon Company, and has nearly reached the 100,000 mark. It is beautifully printed in colors, and is embossed so that the leaves and berries stand out. It is also cut out. The Cupples & Leon Company are reaping a big success with "Little Nemo in Slumberland," resulting from the wide publicity given the book through the play now on at the New Amsterdam Theatre, New York. All the scenes are taken from this book.

LIFE PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready a new book of James Montgomery Flagg, entitled "All in the Same Boat," which deals in humorous picture and verse with the familiar types one meets on shipboard. The little book is in the same form as his "Why They Married," and "Tomfoolery." They will bring out in December "A Little Bird Told Me," funny pictures and captions contributed to Life, by Walt Kuhn, whose wise owls, loquacious parrots and saucy sparrows are known everywhere where live drawings are painted and which have furnished fun for old and young.

THE OLIVER DITSON COMPANY have just added to their excellent Musician's Library a collection of "Songs from the Operas for Mezzosopranos," edited by H. E. Krehbiel. The selection begins with Caccini and Monteverde, and ends with Bizet and Massenet, with a score of composers between. Most of the composers are represented by a single selection each. Mr. Krehbiel's prefatory text is scholarly, and more nearly adequate than might be expected when two dozen musicians are discussed in as many pages. A group of nine portraits forms the frontispiece.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY publish next week a work entitled "Browning's England," a companion volume to "Browning's Italy," by the same author, Helen A. Clarke, in which is brought together Robert Browning's verse relating to England, as his verse relating to Italy was covered in her earlier volume. "The Appreciation of the Drama," by Charles H. Caffin, in which is given a history of the drama since its earliest development on the Greek stage, a feature of the volume being an analysis of "Hedda Gabler;" also, Charles Dickens's "The Chimes," illustrated in line and color by George Alfred Williams. They have just ready a new novel by Margaret Prescott Montague, entitled "In Calvert's Valley," a story of West Virginia life.

PRESIDENT CHARLES W. ELIOT, for forty years president of Harvard, has tendered his resignation, to take effect May 19, 1909. President Eliot at seventy-five has surely earned his right to rest, even though he retains his mental and bodily vigor. He not only leaves the university better off materially than when he took charge of its affairs, having secured for it an endowment of $20,000,000, and probably nearly as much in the value of the plant, but, above all, largely owing to his personal exertions, the Harvard College of forty years ago has been converted into the great modern university of to-day, dealing with every form of human activity in its teaching and spreading far beyond academic limits in its range.

B. W. HUEBSCH publishes this week a volume on "The Spiritual Significance of Modern Socialism," by John Spargo, who treats

Socialism from a new viewpoint in a way that will be much discussed. He makes out a strong case for the ethical side of the movement which has heretofore been treated almost solely for its economic aspect. Mr. Huebsch will publish at once Maxim Gorky's latest and greatest novel, "The Spy, the Story of a Superfluous Man," an exposure of the secret police methods in Russia. Of "With the Battle Fleet," by Franklin Matthews, just brought out, Admiral Evans says: "It is one of the very best books ever written about the navy. . . . For giving the people a correct idea of their navy it is invaluable."

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY publish this week a volume entitled "Things Korean," a collection of sketches and anecdotes gained during his long residence in the capital of Korea, by Dr. Horace N. Allen, recently Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Korea; also "Twenty Years in Persia," by Dr. John G. Wishard, who as a physician had ample opportunity of becoming intimately acquainted with the life of a people but little known to Americans. They will publish shortly a work on the "Principles of Successful Church Advertising," by Charles Stelzle, a prominent trade-union writer and speaker to union men in Christian churches; also "The Gift of Influence," by Hugh Block, in which he sounds a very optimistic note on the condition and spirit of the American college.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just ready an important work in two volumes, on "The Development of Modern Art," by Julius Meier-Graefe, translated from the German by Florence Simmonds. According to the subtitle of the book, it is "a comparative study of the formative arts, being a contribution to a new system of aesthetics." They have also brought out "Henry of Navarre," an anonymous romance, a dramatic version of which is to be produced this season in London by Miss Neilson and Fred Terry; a novel of life in Japan, entitled "The Heart of a Geisha," by Mrs. Hugh Fraser, (F. Marion Crawford's sister;) "Oxford in the Eighteenth Century," describing the academic life of eighteenth century England, by A. D. Godley; a new volume in the Memoir Series, entitled "Lorenzo the Magnificent, also Florence in Her Golden Age," by E. L. S. Horsburgh, Queen's College, Oxford, author of "Savonarola."

JOHN LANE COMPANY publish this week "The Memoirs of the Dukes of Urbino," by James Dennistoun, edited with notes by Edward Hutton. The book is published in three volumes (containing over 100 illustrations), and draws a remarkable picture of the arms, art and literature of Italy from 1440 to 1630. It is the chief authority upon the Duchy of Urbino from the beginning of the fifteenth century, although for years it has been out of print. The Court of Urbino was perhaps the most splendid and cultured in Italy and Duke Federigo one of the greatest soldiers of his time. Mr. Hutton has carefully edited the present work, leaving the text substantially the same as the original, but adding a large number of new notes, contents and references. Besides these notes the book acquires a new value on account of the mass of illustrations which it now contains, thus adding a pictorial comment to a historical and critical one.

B. W. DODGE & Co., will bring out this fall the following books for young people: "Father Crow and his Crew," by Franklin Olmsted, a book describing in story-fashion the animal life of a typical New England farm, with attractive drawings by Gilbert White; "The Bird Cage," with verses on different birds, by Wallace Irwin and striking pictures in colors by Edna Morse; "A Noble Company of Adventurers," by Rufus Rockwell Wilson, author of "Sea Rovers," who retells stirring stories of some modern "privates of industry"—cowboys, miners, engineers, loggers and firemen—in a way that will interest and delight boys; also "The Little Adventure of Miss Kitty Topsy Toe," by Louise Morgan Sill and Ethel De Wees, which relates the doings of a wee kitten in rhymes and pictures for the little tots.

THE MCCLURE COMPANY will publish at once, Ellen Terry's "The Story of My Life," which will be illustrated with photographs from Miss Terry's collection, reproductions from notable paintings of Terry and Irving and special drawings by Albert Sterner. They will also publish shortly the third and concluding volume of "The Reminiscences of Carl Schurz," the remarkable record of a remarkable career. General Schurz died while this volume was being written, leaving, however, behind him a mass of material intended to assist him in the completion of his task. He had carried his work down to the middle of Grant's administration, and the material left was entrusted to a well-known and thoroughly competent historian, Mr. Frederic Bancroft, who with the assistance of William A. Dunning has constructed out of it a concise and rounded account of the latter part of Mr. Schurz's life, which was filled with so many important political activities and with public service of such inestimable value in many directions.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY publish this week the sixth and final volume of the Eversley edition of the works of Tennyson, annotated by the poet and edited by his son; the volume on "Hebrews," edited by Professor Edgar J. Goodspeed, of the University of Chicago, in The Bible for Home and School series; "Specimens of Exposition and Argument," by Milton Percival and R. A. Jelliffe, of Oberlin College; "New Zealand," painted by F. and W. Wright, described by the Honorable W. P. Reeves; "The Light Side of Egypt," painted and described by Lance Thackeray; also, "Southern Spain," painted by Trevor Haddon, described by A. F. Calvert. They will publish at once the twelfth and concluding volume of Temple Scott's edition of Swift's prose works. It contains an essay by the late Sir Frederick Falkner on the portraits of Swift and Stella, and another by the Dean of St. Patrick's on the relations between Swift and Stella; a bibliography, compiled by Spencer Jackson; and a general index to the twelve volumes. The bibliography is said to be the first with any claim to completeness.

HARPER & BROTHERS publish this week a tale of adventure by Howard Pyle, entitled "The Ruby of Kishmoor." This ruby is a famous jewel which is pillaged from the treasure ship of the Rajah of Kishmoor by a West Indian buccaneer. The scene of the story is laid in Kingston, Jamaica, in the days when that city was a favorite resort of pirates and adventurers. The book is illustrated in color by the author. They have also, just ready, "An Immortal Soul," by W. H. Mallock, essentially a present-day story, which gives a picture of English provincial life and involves various problems which interest the religious and scientific student; "Miss Betty of New York," a story for young people, of experiences encountered in the country by a New York girl and a boy, by Ellen Douglas Deland, author of "A Little Son of Sunshine," also, "Under the Great Bear," a story of adventure in Newfoundland and Labrador, by Kirk Munroe, author of "Rick Dale," etc. Besides these works of fiction they have also ready a book by Katherine Jewell Everts on "The Speaking Voice." This work is in large part an outcome of the recent "speech crusade," which was recently conducted in Harper's Bazar by Henry James, W. D. Howells, and others. The author of the present book is a dramatic reader and an instructor in voice culture.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co., will publish on November 11, an important book by Maud Howe, author of "Two in Italy," entitled "Sun and Shadow in Spain," giving the author's impressions and experiences during a two-years' residence on the peninsula. The book is fully and attractively illustrated. Another publication on the same day is Captain A. T. Mahan's "Naval Administration and War," a book dealing with those principles which govern the United States Navy and its conduct, a subject on which Captain Mahan has long been a recognized authority. They will also bring out this month "Paris the Beautiful," by Lilian Whiting, a record of Parisian life and scenes gathered during a dozen or more visits which this well-known author has made to the French capital; "Through Ramona's Country," by George Wharton James, author of "In and Out of the Old Missions," etc., a separation of the facts and fiction which combined to create this popular story; also a new one-volume edition of the poems and sonnets of the late Louise Chandler Moulton, hitherto published under the three titles "Swallow Flights," "At the Wind's Will," and "In the Garden of Dreams," with an eulogistic introduction by Harriet Prescott Spofford. Their list of publications for the year will be completed by the issue of eight volumes of Victor Hugo's works, two volumes of verse, three volumes of dramatic works, "Napoleon the Little" in one volume and "The History of a Crime" in two volumes.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish on the 10th instant the authorized "Life of James McNeill Whistler," by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pennell, one of the literary events of the year. This book has been eagerly awaited by all who are interested in contemporary art history, and their impatience has been stimulated not a little by the litigation which has attended the preparation of the manuscript, as well as the mechanical portions of the work. The book will be issued in two sumptuous volumes, which it is understood will bear many features especially appropriate to the subject of whom it treats. The binding and the paper will contain reminiscences of the eccentricities and mannerisms of Whistler, and the wealth of illustration will eclipse any attempt yet made to bring together an adequate representation of the work and activities of the painter. Sketches will be shown side by side with finished pictures, and perfect as care and skill can make them. They have brought out the second edition of Ralph Henry Barbour's holiday gift-book, "My Lady of the Fog," and a fifth edition of Dr. George L. Walton's timely little volume, "Why Worry?" The success of this latter book has been remarkable, and the printing order on each succeeding edition has been larger than the former one. Anne Hollingsworth Wharton's latest volume, a companion to "Italian Days and Ways," which, by the way, is in its fourth edition, has just been published by the Lippincotts. It is called "An English Honeymoon," and takes two of the characters from "Italian Days and Ways" on a honeymoon trip through the less-frequented nooks and corners of England.

THE PENN PUBLISHING COMPANY are in the market this fall with a larger and stronger line of books for young people than they have ever had, which is a strong statement when it is considered that this house has built up a large business and gained an enviable reputation for its discrimination in selecting books of a strong character and producing them in such a way that they will attract and eventually hold the attention of the bookbuyer. For boys—and, we imagine, that takes in also their sisters and cousins and aunts—they have a new story by Captain Paul B. Malone, of the U. S. Army, entitled "A West Point Cadet," continuing the career of Cadet Douglas Atwell, who figures in the three books already brought out in The West Point Series, all of which emphasize the fact that the real spirit of West Point is the one that makes of the cadet an officer and a gentleman. To the College Athletic Series they have added a second volume, "A Sophomore Half-Back," by T. Truxton Hare, a well-known college athlete, whose hero, naturally, is prominent in athletics and all other interesting features of college life. The Annapolis Stories series has been strengthened by a new volume, "An Annapolis Youngster," in which the author, Lieutenant-Commander Edward L. Beach, U. S. N., follows his hero's career during his second year at the Naval Academy, including an exciting cruise on a battleship. The United States Navy Series has been augmented by a story entitled "A U. S. Midshipman Afloat," by Lieutenant-

Commander Yates Stirling, Jr., U. S. N., who writes a picturesque, brilliant story of two recent Annapolis graduates who become involved in a South American revolution and have a number of adventures, and at the same time shows how our modern navy quietly does big things. The Prep. School Athletic Stories series starts with a story dealing with foot-ball, sturdy character and wholesome boyish fun, entitled "On the School Team," by John Prescott Earl. For the girls specially the ever-popular Margaret Warde has "Betty Wales, B.A.," on a European trip, where Betty Wales and her friends have many unusual adventures and see interesting things a-plenty. All these books are attractively bound and illustrated. For the younger readers they have in Grandpa's Little Girl Series, to which Alice Turner Curtis has contributed a volume entitled "Grandpa's Little Girls at School," telling how the two little Newman girls ran away to escape going to school, but instead went, played basket ball, joined societies and had a good time generally; "The Street Singer," by John T. McIntyre, the story of a street boy who supports himself and another boy by his voice and helps to restore his friend to his family; "Little Miss Evangeline," by Evelyn Raymond, a story of life in historic Grand Pré, Nova Scotia; "Wonder Stories from the Mabinogian," a collection of Welsh folk tales, by Dr. Edward Brooks; "Peggy Owen," by Lucy Foster Madison, giving an account of a patriotic maiden in Philadelphia during its occupation by the British; also, "Felicia," by Elizabeth Lincoln Gould, the story of a minister's girl, aged thirteen, who creditably manages her father's house and makes the congregation and the community glad that she is—just Felicia.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, or those advertising anonymously, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line. All objectionable books will be excluded so far as they come under our notice.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" book-sellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

By FRANKLIN MATTHEWS. Illustrated in color by Henry Reuterdaahl. $1.50

The authoritative story of our fleet's cruise from Hampton Roads to San Francisco. "FIGHTING BOB" EVANS says: "It is one of the very best books ever written about the Navy, and I hope it will find a place in every library in the United States. For giving the people a correct idea of their Navy it is invaluable." Is it in the library of your town?

READY NOV. 21st

THE SPY The Story of a Superfluous Man

By MAXIM GORKY. $1.50

His greatest novel: powerful, realistic, sensational. An exposure of the secret police methods in Russia; a vivid picture of the revolution and its heroic men and women; a marvellous psychological study.

B. W. HUEBSCH, Publisher, 225 Fifth ave., New York

A RARE VOLUME FOR CHRISTMAS

THE PILGRIMS AND OTHER POEMS

By NATHAN HASKELL DOLE

The principal poem in this beautiful volume was prepared for the Exercises at the laying of the corner stone of the "Compact" Monument at Provincetown.

"Certainly there is nothing like it in our literature for originality, daring and breadth. . . . There is not a dull, commonplace page in his book of more than two hundred pages. . . . No one can deny that for once the pious tribute of poetry to the Pilgrim Fathers becomes 'mighty interesting reading.'"—The Listener (Mr. Edward H. Clement) in the Boston Transcript.

"The poems are lofty, elevating or witty, amusing or humorous, as the occasion offers. Mr. Dole has written a rare volume."—The Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

"Never before was I so impressed with the advantages of having our popular history treated as you have treated it in 'The Pilgrims.'"—Mr. Erasmus Wilson of the Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

It is a book which all Mayflower Descendants and every American ought to possess.

When Daddy Was a Boy

By THOMAS WOOD PARRY

ILLUSTRATED BY H. WOOD

A book of real childhood, in thirty-three stories, all beautifully illustrated. Stories true to nature, entertaining, full of natural humor, negro dialect and plantation lore.

The book will entertain and instruct every child, and interest every real lover of children. It has been a success from the day of its publication. Everywhere it has gained at once the endorsement of educators, ministers, book dealers, parents and children.

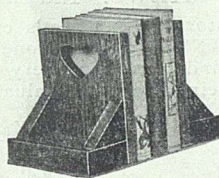

No juvenile library is complete without it.

THE CHRISTMAS RUSH

How to Get Your Share of Holiday Orders

AT this busy season every live bookseller is considering plans for holiday cataloging. The question with him is how to make his Christmas announcements with dignity and effect without spending too much time and money in the production of an attractive catalog.

This problem is fully answered in the use of "The Christmas Bookshelf" (the Christmas number of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY) with the dealer's own imprint. It is a magazine-catalog of about 240 pages, copiously illustrated with specimen illustrations from the best books of the year. It contains a most attractive assemblage of the best new issues of all the publishers, with ample descriptive notices. A feature is the carefully prepared purchase list, which, with the publishers' own advertisements, gives a comprehensive survey of about all a bookseller would be likely to keep in stock during the holiday season.

It is the kind of a Christmas Catalog your customers would feel flattered in receiving!

The price, for editions with the bookseller's own imprint, is based on cost of paper and press work only, without counting cost of composition, and is, therefore, much below the cost of a catalog made by any bookseller for himself.

COST OF "THE CHRISTMAS BOOKSHELF," IMPRINTED

For 100 Copies	-	-	-	-	$10.00
" 250 "	-	-	-	-	20.00
" 500 "	-	-	-	-	38.00
" 1000 "	-	-	-	-	75.00

We remind you that it is necessary to have orders early, so as to regulate the size of the edition. Last year several belated orders came after printing was completed and edition sold.

We will be glad to send you a sample copy of last year's issue on request.

A GENUINE SEA ROMANCE

CAPTAIN MARGARET

By JOHN MASEFIELD

Author of "A Tarpaulin Muster"

"Mr. Masefield, who will be best known to his American readers by his delightful anthology of songs of the sea and of the seafaring life, has introduced the flavor of the Spanish Main and of the sea adventurers of the Elizabethan era into his novel, and tells a tale of a voyage to the Caribbean and to Virginia which should appeal to the lover of romance pure and simple."
